The architect Nuno Graça Moura integrated nature into his architecture and the result was a discrete house incorporated into its surroundings.

The house is designed with two floors, the entrance, WC, closet and a bedroom with a balcony are found on the first floor, which also has access to level -1 where there is also access to the stairwell.

There you will find a joint living and kitchen room area, another small WC and pantry. The open space of the living room gives access to the private terrace with a view of the communal pool and the golf course.

The entire house is inspired by nature, which is visible through the colours and the decoration.
